RADIO-TV STATION GUIDE

Here in one handy reference are listed the important statistics about the authorized television, fm, and medium-wave am broadcasting stations in the United States, Canada, Mexico, and the West Indies—more than 12,000 stations in all.

The stations are listed three ways, by geographic location, by frequency, and by call letters. Network affiliations are shown, and noncommercial educational stations are identified. For fm stations, power and antenna heights are listed, and stereo stations are noted. For am stations, both day power and night power are given. To make the listings as complete as possible, stations not on the air but expected to begin or resume operation soon are included.

If you enjoy pulling in distant stations (DXing), you will find this book a great help in identifying the stations you hear, and it will tell you where to tune for stations in a particular country or region. When you are traveling, you can find out what stations operate in the area where you are, which ones carry your favorite network, and which ones broadcast in stereo. Time buyers and others involved in broadcasting will find the information useful for a number of purposes.

Over 2500 changes have been made in this edition to keep the listings as up to date as possible. Each entry has been checked and rechecked, and the station lists have been computer assembled. Whatever your interest in broadcasting stations may be, you should find this the most convenient, accurate, and up-to-date guide available.

VANE JONES is engaged in many activities, but his first love is this book. Whenever possible, he is in his study, with a television set and two or three radios all operating at once. He can recite call letters and tell you the history of stations by the hour. Since the publication of his first station guide in 1958, his list of followers has grown with each edition, primarily because of the personal attention he gives each entry and the hairline accuracy for which he is famous.
